

Well, Chibato was adopted into Comanche, so they in the Comanche tribe.

They in the Comanche tribe.

(How old a man is David?)

Oh, he must be about 50 or 60.

(Did you ever hear why Chibato and his brother left New Mexico?)

Well, I think them boys can tell you all about it. I think they got-- those people are mean down there--they kill one another. I think they murdered or killed somebody. And they were left after them and they run off. Come up here among our people.

(Would you know when, it was, they came here?)

It was before the country opened. Before 1900. And Quanah Parker--they live with Quanah Parker, the Comanche chief and he adopted them into the tribe and they got full privileges. I think they all drew allotments. And those boys can tell you.

(I'll look them up then, because I want to get their stories?)

You know, there's another interesting story I thought we'd get, but it's a long one. Oh, these Ten Grandmother stories, and Buffalo Medicine Story.

(Do you know those?)

Yeah, they're long ones, and we'll get them next time you come.

BUFFALO MEDICINE:

(What's this Buffalo Medicine Story?)

Well, it's something like this Underwater Medicine--Buffalo-- It happened that this captive woman went way out there among some other tribes. Live among them and she finally escape and coming towards home across the plains got overtaken in a storm. And didn't know where to
