

out and make a good aim that he was taught to hit the buffalo right on the lower part of the ribs. And he shot and his arrow went through and he said the buffalo topple over and fell on this arrow and broke it. So he was talking about his arrow and the man that was teaching them told him, "Never mind about your arrow. You killed the buffalo. That's the first buffalo you kill." So, when there was, course somebody to get the buffalo skin and bring it home. So he came home. And when he got home why all the Indians would see a person bring something a deer or buffalo, what not, then they would all go over there and get a piece of that meat. So, when they got it why, somebody came along and says, "You got your first buffalo." And he said they had their drum. They were all ready to dance because it was his first buffalo. And they had a big dance about him killing a buffalo - his first one to kill. So that was his lesson. You cannot say that only white people teach you something. The Indians teach them what to do - how be a warrior, how to kill a buffalo; how to be a horseman, and how to do this and that, everything. So they have gone to school that way. There was always one man to teach them what they could do. And the same way with girls. They were teach -

END OF SIDE I