

Comanche battles with the Navajos or with the Utes?)

Oh, Yeah. They told me about a place - there's a mountain over there this side of - it's on other side of that creek they call North Fork of Red River. There some mountain - that was quite a mountain that was all all by its self this - from this Rockies. And it's got a black top on it.~ And this Navajos come down here to get horses from the Comanches. So they went up there and stayed up there. That's when they attacked the Comanches when they came over and camped right into them. So they said they fought them and just run 'em over that way and they never did come back. And we call that Navajo Mountain.

(Well that's Southwest of Hobart?)

Yeah. Some old man told about these Arapahoes. They came and attack some people that were - you know where they used to have Easter Pagent?

(Yes. Near Lawton)

Yeah. Near Lawton. It's Vistula Mountain. Just an old like mountain. It's the Comanches run up there when they saw them coming and they had fight there and after while the - one Indian run this way and went to the camp and told them - the whole bunch came and run 'em out of there too.

(These were the Arapahoes?)

Yeah. Arapahoes. I don't know where the Kiowas were when they fought them Utes.

COMANCHE BURIAL GROUNDS IN WICHITA MOUNTAINS

(You were telling me about the burial ground there in the Wichitas for Comanches.)

I cannot say exactly here but it's all over the mountains. When they was put here, every time some body died they take - carry 'em to those mountains. I know where Mount Scott is there's an old slantin' like down here,
