

Yeah, use to have to take them out there and sing. Sing all different names, songs that they going to give them name. Name change, going to take that name out and we're all going to say that new name. We're going to all say the name. When that's over well when that's over again they take a--them two head men take up pipes you know, pipes and come around the light, light from the fire, and them two they usually out there. One on each side at door, you know, stand like that. One there and one there. When the people goes over there they know it's near time for us to know dance to start.

(To start the ceremony?)

6. PIPE - SMOKE CEREMONY PRECEDES DOCTORS DANCE

Yeah. And after that--like about the pipe you know, the smoke is in there, you know.

Mrs. Osborne: They not dancing yet, you know.

No, it's just going to start.

(This name change is done before--it's done after the doctors are ready, have got themselves ready for the ceremony?)

Yeah.

(But it's done before they, actually start doing the doctor dance?)

Yeah, and when they get through they go certain ways you know, like Edward said. Like that you know, all directions about that smoke.

Mrs. Osborne: To the mother earth and to the heavens.

Yeah, that's the way like that. Just one that away, and when that--when it's light light the pipe, you know, they take it around, I think it's four, I think they join the east--he's ready too, take the pipe like that--like that.

(You hold the pipe with both hands on the stem.)

Like that. And they go across to the other one says way and they come around, and in the middle there's about four, two on each side and they come around about that time it's in house. Come around and right in front they have
