

(You mean outfit clothes?)

Uh huh.

COSTUMES USED IN IMITATION

Mrs. Osborne: The tail that they wore, you know, horse tail?

They mentioned that a while back, about me as to whether a buffalo robe you know, buffalo robe. I guess about a month ago they mentioned that about me, if you see me in there. You have to wear long buffalo robe. Ohhh long ones.

(How would you wear it, over your head--)

Right here, like that.

(What did--)

Mrs. Osborne: A robe you know, because he's imitating a horse you know. And brown eagle feathers. Speckled brown eagle feathers on my head like this.

(What else did the outfit consist of besides this eagle feathers and robe?)

Oh, it's--fan and then I got a gourd they made up there. Some kind of hide, they got fingerprints on there. About that--you know the inside of a eagle feather you know, brown. All around like that.

(Around the gourd?)

WHEN ONE DANCE IS OVER, ALL GO HOME

Uh huh. And when that's over, that's over, everythings over, that Doctor Dancing, everything when they stop nobody go out then. Tell the boss over there, talk about the purpose of gathering there. They talk--good talk, good luck for the people, for all. They say sometime again somebody like the way we sit. It's sometime maybe somebody want to go out like that. Say no, we talk good, luck for all of us. So they say that. And another way they use this whole lot--I hear some people use that. And sometime my mind goes back on dates of what they use to say. They say about love. Them two, they growed up. Them two. They use to say that.
