

(Just draw them out without making any--)

Yeah, just draw them out. I saw that.

(Who was this--John Blue Hawk you say?)

I think it was John Blue Hawk, or old man Blue Hawk, I don't remember which.

One of the two of them. Old Man Blue Hawk he was good, John was good too.

(Was the fact that you made this noise like the bear--)

Yeah, trying to get that in there, When it got it I guess the old lady knows just about the time he got it, covered his head with that blanket and get under there. And another thing, they use to--like a lady (Pawnee word)--

Mrs. Osborne: When she's in labor you know, child?

Yeah. --(Pawnee word) they would to out to places like that--no hospitals you know. Sent for them doctors, Ramona, and they come. Maybe one, maybe two, they come and they bring them otter hides. The whole otter hides you know. Some they got different kinds of colors in their mouths, ribbons you know. In their mouth the whole otter, they bring it and then they wrap it around. The whole otter around. And then they sing songs. While their singing songs (Pawnee word)--yeah--right now, and then they take it off of him.

Yeah.

Mrs. Osborne: No wonder they say they were a religious people, they believed in what--in what they were.

Yeah, that one, that main water, that otter, old man Sun Eagle use to have that, when he performed he had that otter.

(This is what I was going to ask you, you said this doctor made this noise like a bear. Would this mean that this probably was the animal that he imitated in the Doctor Dance?)

Yeah. He in a dream you know. Even--of them.

CHOICE OF ANIMALS MAN IMITATED WAS PASSED WON TO NEXT GENERATION

(How did--I think this is what you are saying--how did a person--how was it that your father or maybe some relatives before him happened to be imitating
