

Joe: They are, afraid of strangers. Around there when they drove 'em up you know, drove 'em up that's the way they done. They built a gate right up here next to the house. I wouldn't buy those kind of cattle.

MORE EARLY DAY PERSONALITIES

Welch: Where is that old, what was that old man Eaton name that use to live here in the house?

Joe: Eaton, Jim Eaton.

Welch: Jim, where did he live? Live down further, down?

Joe: Jim Eaton, they used to live up along above the bridge where they used to live.

Welch: First time I ever went--the very first time I ever went to the seminary and brought me right down through, down--, I don't know, but we stayed all night with Jim--I don't think.

Joe: Yeah, they used to live in this holler. Turn a little ways and head across that holler.

Welch: Stayed all night there and then the next day we went to Moody, I believe it was, and we didn't get there till pretty near night, cause dad had to stop and talk, and he'd spend an hour or two in one place.

Finally, we got old Charlie Tanner, he was driving the team for us.

Charlie used to live right there close to us. Charlie--he use to live just down here mouth of this holler, old people--Just right down here where we stop. Bill Butler lived down there some time. It's way over, this holler, where Ed Washburn lived. They had store. Right there in the bend. Ed had the store there, that Sayer store. I know we stayed there one night. One time, I don't know where the heck we was going,

I guess to Tahlequah, we was going back over toward that way over yonder,
