

out and he said, "That's plenty for me to use when I go down. When I get down to the bottom of the mountain." So he got that many and finally he rest up. Stayed there on top for about three more days. When the fourth day came, he said he was rested up. And all those seven, what he chip off, he had a little piece of buckskin, ragged, tear his buckskin garment in there, you know, tear it and put these whatever it is he dhip off, these rocks, put them in there. And he fold it up and tie it and put it in some side, maybe cut hole and put it in there. Tied it the best way he can and he forgot about it but he just kept it in there. He decide he want to go down. He went so far, and you know this cliff of this mountain is so steepdown, you know, well, he just try it and the best way he can. He went down little bit east of where he came up. He went down. Turn around this face. Kept going down just the best way he can. Kept going and going. Finally he came to a point, down there where it's pretty rough. This man, this friend off his said he's going to protect him. So he didn't get afraid. He was going to be well protected as long as he's going down from the top of this mountain clear to the bottom of this mountain. Kept on and on. Never was afraid no more. When he going he start to get tired. The sun start to get low and he decide he going to lay there and sleep. Going to sleep. When he sleeping, his friend come to him. He said, "Now, you going down. Don't be afraid to go down. I'm going to protect you from the foot of the mountain clear to the top. You coming down now and I'm glad you went on top by yourself. YHou're a good man, young man. But I'm going totell you when you get to the bottom of the mountain, I'm going to tell you something that you never knew. Going to give you something what you never done before in your life. "Protect him all the way through. So early in themorning he told him, "You better wake up. Start going down. It's clouding up, it may rian. If it rain, keep agoing. Maybe if something help you, bless you the clouds may all go away. No rain or nothing." So he kept going down, down, down. Sixth day, he went way up there half way, and finally night came again. Six and four is ten, you know. Ten days. Next morning he got up, kept going, going, going. Went down so far and finally night
