

They put cows in, cows in, cows in. Inside of box car. They had lot of cattle, they said, and lot of horses. These boys, they got a big box. Put their hat in it, and their gun and everything--saddle. They change clothes. Put little hats on. (He laughs.) That train backed out. They got in that box car. Then they pull that car--long time. They got there to Kansas City. Some boys down there, they drive them cattle down to the corral. Some over there. We drive them all over there. Then we go to a cafe and eat there. Then they take me to store and buy me whole suit, and boots--gloves, hat, overcoat. Give me about a hundred dollars. They got lot of money like that, Jesse James. He change (clothes), so nobody know (him). He's a good-looking man, though. That's what I seen--Jesse James.

OUTLAW CAVES OR HIDEOUTS NEAR HOBART

Another cave I know--I saw where they stay, west of Hobart. I told a fellow, let's go up there and look. I been up there. But we're afraid of snakes about this time, you know. It's too hot, this time--summertime. You go in there and you see, over there, they got "Jesse James" and what day--date (inscriptions on the cave wall, probably). All them boys got name on there. Boy, you see, it's just like a house. They got old cook stove in there. They all rob all them spoons and knives. Got all their saddles, boots, bridles--everything. And another room--cave--that way. You see lots of coins (?). But we're afraid to go in there--might be snakes--big snakes in there. That's been a long time (ago).

I was around sixteen, seventeen, or eighteen years old, me. That's long time. I saw they got the caves west of Hobart.

(Then Charlie Palmers tells about a man he saw in Lawton during the forties, who claimed to be Jesse James. Then we talk a little about Buffalo Bill and a ranch up at Ponca City. Abel says he
