

(How many brothers and sisters did she have?)

Three brothers, two sisters.

(How many were older than she?)

Annie Thompson was older than her. Three girls.

(All older than she? Oh she was one of the three girls?)

Huh, four altogether including her.

(You had three brothers and three sisters? There were seven children?)

Yes.

(And you all helped your mother with the garden and with work around the house?)

Some had gotten married and left home.

(Did the boys go to school?)

Yes.

(Where did they go to school?)

They had a saying, like Wewoka creek you know. They all used to say across

(Across the creek?)

Across the creek. That was the name for it. It was there call it Ramsey school.

(Ramsey Mission?)

Uh-huh. Ramsey Mission. Her brothers went to school there.

(What were the names of her brothers--the oldest and the next oldest, and the next?)

Harvey was the oldest and Phillip Walker was the--and then Abe Harjo.

(Was Phillip Walker Terry's father?)

No.

(What were the names of her sisters?)

Annie Thompson was the eldest, Louisa Lower and Aggie Kenney. Aggie went to--was the only one that went to school.
