

And winter time they cook them. Well, she told her to go get some of them kind. So, I guess he started west. Just about that time I guess her brothers came back. They didn't stand on the hilla dn olbok down, they get down and look down to where these six brothers--"I wonder what happened down there? Nobody stirring around. Ain't nobody. Look like everybody dead." I guess that what they were sitting there wondering, you know. And pretty soon, they seen somebody walking. Some one person walking around." Look like soming toward us," lthey said. It was their sister--they younger sister. She got close and they recognize her. She was crying, I guess. And they whistle at her and told her to come on up where they were. She went up there and they help her dig those things. Finally they got some. They told her, get this brother. He was kind a --he used to perform miraicls or he wa s magician or--I don't know what he was, but the way it goes in the story. They call him, " ". And he told them sister--"The runt", that's what they name him. So, when we dig this things, siad, "When, you take them back, our sister, she's going to know that a human being help you dig these things. She's going to know it. Once she say that you hit her with that. Jerk your earrings and hit her with that and then you run back up where we at. We be watching for you," they told her. So she did: She went down there and she took those things to that--sure enough, her sister smelled them, she said, "A human being help you dig these. You got help from someone. You don't dig this many," I guess she told her. She said, "Sure, somebody help me dig them. My brothers came back. They help me dig them." Boy, she hit her sister with them earrings and then she run back up toward her brothers. They waiting for her, see? Why her sister chase her. But before she could run she had to run and face four directions before she could turn into a bear. So--and she growl like a bear. Finally she got her bear magic done and she chase her sister. By that time, she was going way up that hill. But try running up a hill at full speed. You get out of breath, can't hardly make it. I guess she was the same way. Anyways, she beat her sister up to where her brothers were. And that her--that youngest one, that runt, he shot an arrow up into the and as far as that arrow went we'll that hill went that high. It was kind of
