

And the Indians was running, and they're chasing you, one of the chiefs will turn back. And he puts on his war bonnet and he goes to them and stops them. That's another way you can become chief. You got to stop the enemy.

CECIL'S SON'S BATTLE EXPERIENCE IN WORLD WAR II & HOW HE WAS HONORED

Jenny: Some of them get killed. Yeah, some of them get killed when they turn back, you know, to stop them or make them run the other way. Sometimes they get knocked down and get killed. That's how come they have to go in a hard way to become chiefs. Like this in the Second World War, John (his son), they was going to charge. But he said that it seemed like everybody was afraid. "Well, I'm going to die nayhow." So he made a charge. He got out of the trench and he ran. And they didn't shoot. They just lucky that nobody didn't shoot. He was just lucky nobody didn't shoot. But he went on six soldiers, six German soldiers, and he hold gun on them and he captured all of them.

(Now, who was that?)

Cecil: John, my boy.

(Oh, really. How wonderful.)

Jenny: Yeah, he's got the bronze star and purple heart in the Second World War.

(A bronze star and purple heart?)

Cecil: Yeah. He knows battle. He knows the number of the battle they had in Germany. And see, they was all in the trench, you know how they are. And they all got killed out. But there's about six Germans in there. Well, on this side there was the United States. Well, the sergeant or whoever it was, they wanted to make a charge and run and get in that ditch, the German did. They didn't know when to start out, so John, he just pulled out. And he ran and he got right on top where the six Germans was, and hold a gun on them and he captured them. Now he's a chief. That's for bravery.
