

in the Locust Grove community.

(And now where they live now that's the old homestead?)

That's the old home place.

(Is that your family cemetery out there east of the highway? I've never been out there but I know where it is. I know there's some prominent Indians that's buried there, some Vanns and Blossoms and Kingfishers.)

You know a cemetery can tell you an awful lot, historically. There's one up there at Markham Ferry just north of Fay, I'd like to know where that's at. I don't know whether it's a Magness cemetery or, I was up there not long ago inquiring about it and they didn't seem to know exactly which one it was that I was talking about. But I'm going to it one of these days and find out. I've been by it. Stop there some day and examine it.

(End of Part I, side A.)