

war paint on. Getting ready, and tying their feathers on their horses' tails, painting up their war ponies, and getting ready for attack. Strip themselves, get their arrows, guns. They got near enough to make the charge from behind the bushes or trees. Over the hill they made the charge. Several of them fellows with white ponies was just whipping up their horses. They were gonna be the ones-- and sure enough it was--Grandpa give me the name but I forgot it--it's been too long ago. Anyway it was a man that drove a spear through the driver and got him, and they kill him and scalp him--and he was riding a white horse. They captured his team and everything. Nobody got hurt. That's the way it was. Then, they was lots of other times that the Sprit Prophet gave a report like that. Sometimes it's so, and sometimes it's not. Well, now, I'm gonna give you a personal experience of a ~~man~~ medium my father tell me about--

(Just a minute--do you know what the name of the prophet was in this story?)

In this story? I couldn't tell you the prophet's name. There were so many of 'em with different names, but there was many of these medium-prophets and I think they call him just "Medicine Man"-- duhai -- duhaide-- that means he's a medicine man or prophet.

(Did you know the names of any of the other men on that war party?)

No, at this time I just know the--grandpa was telling me about this--tenetaide-- He's the one that was telling me about it.

(He was there?)

Yeah, he's dead now. He was there. He told me many other times they tried to-- He told about one time one of 'em said, -pthis is a different man from this one we're talking about--but it was the same old man that told me--tenetaide--he said, "I went with this man's party, got up there and he talked to the spirits pretty near every night. And I got tired of it. We all got to believing him. He made us do a lot of foolish things in order to make us believe him. I began to be skittish (?) about him felling so much contact with the spirits, and I didn't agree with it--I ~~was~~ always agree and do what they tell us just to keep the peace," so I'm gonna give you one incident. He said, "This prophet's name was doguled--
