

like they do, you know, I guess somethin' like - but they go down there and they take these sweat bath. They real good. I'd like to have one right now. They good. They enclosed by little tent. They give a good sweat under there. They good for you. I used to go to 'em all in Hominy. After I married into the family there, I'd go to Willis's. They used to have one there. There's alot of eople took 'em. And lot white eople took 'em. Come down there twice or three times a week. I was in the family. I didn't have to pay it. They cost you a dollar then. Go in there and we come out and go take a shower. Willis had his - you remember where old Dr. Andrews lived, You know where D.C. Harve's place is? Where D.C. Harve's place is now? Down on East Main? Where abstract office is

(Oh. Un Hunh.)

That house - first house east. That was Ernan's property. Right in back there, Willis had his place. He had a place back there. Long building - a place to sleep. Keep house there. He had that other back part. When down Hominy was cleaner than Willis. He didn't get it clean. He set on those old things. No good - temporarily. Mother-in-law kept that. They kept it clean. They did everything. Nobody goes down to any except Osages town, down there. Whole town cause of that. Used to go down there all the time. (Two names not clear)

Don't think too many white eople went down there. But Osages went down Hominy. They had good trade down there. Good buy at there. That's what they do at the Peyote meetin's. They go in those before the day before the then they go to meeting. Have their meetin'. They always the Peyote place have those.

(A those take sweat.)

Yeah. (Words not clear)... or the agents have the building don't they. They had a burner under there to heat those rock. I hear that they would a fire out there and heat 'em and then carry the rocks and put 'em up there.

(Where - they sprinkle water on 'em or somethin' when - How many get in that little round thing?)

How many go in there.
