

(Un hunnah. How many go in there at one time?)

Oh, near ten.

(In that little tent house?)

Yeah. We all circle around there - sit around there. I never been in it, but my folks used to go to 'em. They drink somethin' to make 'em vomit, you know. Get cleaned out, I guess. I remember they used to run a ton feather down their throat. (Laughter)

(O o o h -)

They did. That's what they used to do. Just the feather would clean 'em out.

How far we go.

BUILDING HIS HOME AND GIVING LOCATION OF NEIGHBORS

(Well - they just have a contractor gone in aid -)

We have a contractor office.

(Oh. And he just destroy so many bars and everybody took -)

He build a house. He tell s'lier and they agree to it. That kind houses they had.

All these little tent houses built same way. You know all these surrey houses?

Course Wiggins built after. He didn't care none. I don't think he had one up there then.

(Well - that one up there - that house up there is his. Not the new one but that one that he built. He meant (words, not cheap) was real pretty. I t op out. It was designed different than most.)

Yeah. Freddie's is built somethin' like the rest of the houses.

(Yeah?)

Freddie's and where Pat lives now - it's built like that, too. Practically same floor design - every one of them. They got different - well, in fact, all the people had houses built in country. The kind same kind, two-story houses, had big front, livin' room, bed room on side. Then had dining room there, which don't have now. Just like Jack Benny - You don't need that. You don't use it, do you.
