

there. Old man Bart wanted to buy mine. I said, "How much you want to pay me for it?" He asked me what I want for it. Said, "Take $30,000" Said "How long take you to move out? Just give me 3 days." I said, "No, you not join sell it." (Laughter) He didn't sell it.

(Well - gosh - that was a good price for that house, wasn't it?)

Yeah. Wanted to know how long take to move out. Craddocks, they been wanting to buy it for a long time. Said, "I give you $5000 cash on side, if you sell it to me." I didn't ever listen to him - just went this way. Want me to sell, you know. Thought maybe he had that $5000.

ONE DAUGHTER - HER HUSBAND IN U.S. SERVICE

We just had one child - she lives now in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Her husband is Army officer. Gettin' ready to go to Viet Nam in July.

(Oh, he is?)

Yes. He went to what they call the Commander School there. They have every year and when one group finish, they send another group there. That way they refresh - get more education on how to supervise men, I guess. How to handle when they get into a situation you know, they have to make their own decision. That's what they teach 'em. That's a tough course, he says. I don't know how many they have this year. They had about 130 last year, maybe more. They have - every year they come from all over the world. They had some Viet Nam people there. They had six women, I believe this time.

(Is your daughter going to move back here while he is over there?)

No. We don't want her here. (Laughter) No. They got a place in what they call (word not clear). The all move up there. That's where they put all the families. There's a city there. It's a camp where all the wives of the officers that's on duty out of the country. They got the same - they got sort of camp. They got houses for 'em to live in. They going to move there soon as - well his school lets
