

They have to bring those horses over more than - I forgot, I said that, didn't I. - maybe not more than three times. Sometimes it happens.

(Yes.)

And after they distribute the horses around, then the wedding takes place the next day.

(And then where does that usually take place?)

Well, just right - they send the girl over to the boy's home, you know.

Over where - if they camping with this - they dress her, you know, and she has, usually the girl's aunt on the father's side are usually the ones that take the lead. They are in there in the wedding. That's why I say that they are usually the bridesmaids. Uh-huh. Her father's sisters, if he has sisters. If he doesn't have sisters, then they take the next relations.

The next will be the next relations. ((Irreveland words)) There was Charles' little girl. I give you this so you understand. But Charles' little girl - well, see that he marries her off. Do you see that. Why, you be the one to take the lead. That's the only way I could explain it. You see, it's lucky enough he has, but if he don't have, it's just like - then they take the next. It's usually - just like me now and May. Now we didn't have brothers, but our folks took the next ones like the Red Corn boys. Uncle Raymond and then the Red Eagle - Uncle Paul Red Eagle, May - those two that was on my mother's - see, they on my mother's relatives, you know. And we didn't have no brothers at all, either one of us. So she taken Raymond Red Corn and Paul Eagle. That's Eddie's father. See that's on her side of the family. Her side, you understand? And then on my father's side it be his sister. Just like I said, you just like little Charlie's little Charlie's little girl to marry, now you be the leader 'cause you his aunt. But if he don't have any aunt, he would take the next relation. You
