

when they can't catch it, when they can't catch the rain, you know. Yeah, they go four days, and you know they make it rain. This man tries like that. But that other man, see, he's got maybe a little different system. You might hit it. That's what they look for, they want somebody to hit that, you know. You know, bring the rain. Yeah, they go four days sometime, but mostly they can do it. They used to. Now, we don't use it anymore. That's about all I would know, you know, about this rain.

(Did it ever rain too much?)

Well, they bring in the rain, this fellow you know, help make a crop, you know.

SCHOOLING

(Where did you go to school?)

Well, I went to Riverside. I didn't go there too long. I had eye trouble, I didn't go too long. I went there 100, I think, then them days, hard--I don't know, I caught the school there, but I don't think they was operating it right. That's all I got to say about it it ain't. Well, I went to school, you know, maybe nine, maybe three hours, every day. And the rest of it, I had to work you know, when I could do a little work, some kind of work. I don't know, I always did think--don't think the government trying to help me, go through school. They didn't--
