

Yeah, that's right. So in about 4 or 5 days they came back negative. So they said, then, (not clear) down there. Said I didn't have no TB. But they couldn't you know, the doctors alone, they couldn't see nothin'. But I down here for two years. That woman told me. Looked at her books and said, "You've been here two years. And I'll tell you what you do." That was really, she thought that was too long. You know that I'd been over there. Said, "I know I don't have no TB." But course they couldn't see any. (words not clear) And so that man told me, he X-rayed it. 4 or 5 days.

(When it came back, he said it was negative. So after two years of shots you didn't have to go back anymore.)

No, I didn't. I didn't go back no more.

(Where did you have to go to get those shots?)

Boswell.

(In Boswell?)

(not clear)

Mrs. Shoals: Didn't have no TB, huh?

No, I didn't. I didn't but then they said. They said they did. Doctor said I had. This man was found, this doctor was found dead in the bed. Right here at Boswell about two months ago. He was a good doctor too.

(Did you have to pay for all those shots you took?)

Yeah.

(Didn't that. Now that was a waste of time and money too. Wasn't it?)

Yeah. It sure was. He was a good doctor. Common Indian doctor too. And a good doctor. They found out even. . . found him dead in the bed.

Mrs. Shoals: He tried to get you to go to the hospital. And you wouldn't even go. He told me try to get you to go. I told him alright. But I am
