

"n<sup>1</sup> sokot" means, "my property".

(What about if you were talking about your country?)

"n<sup>1</sup> m<sup>1</sup> soko" means "lot of you--is our land."

(What is the word for "sky"?)

"tamo. pi"

(Is that if it is day or night, just the sky all the time?)

No, "tamo. pi" means "sky" and tukani" means "night". "tukanima" means "It's dark".

("moon"?)

"mu"

(Sun?)

tapi".

("stars"?)

"datsinopi".

(What about just one star?)

(Is that how you say one of anything, "s<sup>1</sup> m<sup>1</sup>"?)

Yes, it means just one. "s<sup>1</sup> m<sup>1</sup> s<sup>1</sup>" means one.

(You can put that in front of anything?)

Yes.

("wind"?)

"neit".

(How would you say the difference between an ordinary breeze and a storm wind?)

Just "little wind", "huitsima neit". Means, "little wind."

(Would you say "big wind" for a storm?)

"pia neit<sup>1</sup> ma" means "big wind".

(How would you say "big"?)

"pia".

(They're almost the same.)

Yeah.
