

something fell and one of them look up--

(Mrs. Curley: He said he's like his grandpa, he's climbing way up.)

And he look up and he says, "Not, this boy Bobohone, he's a man. He never tell a lie." Always believe what he say. "He's a man because he always tells the truth." That's what the old man said. That was before he told that turkey stealing story. Now he said, "Yeah, he's a good boy, never tells a lie, whenever he tells you something always accept it as true, as his grandpa." And he says, "Grandpa Bobohone he's a squirrel. He can climb up to the very top of the trees. He's a squirrel he's like his grandpa. He can climb every limb show the world he's a squirrel." And about that time somebody looked up there and heard something and the limb broke and he was coming down. (laughter) "AHHHHH he fell, he fell, he fell." "Catch him and help him." And before he fell--several limbs up there, somehow he grabbed hold of those limbs there and got hold of them other limbs like a monkey and he dangle up there. "He is falling down--catch him!" "Beat 'im up. We told him not to climb," old man said that. "That's the way he's a monkey like his grandpa. He's a regular squirrel," he just climb back up and they commenced bragging on him. (Much laughter) Then they went off to play and he came crying while Kickingbird was still there. "Uncle Kickingbird, I'm going to tell you the truth, Grandpa and Burt (name not clear) been killing your wild turkeys and eating them." Old man said, "Never believe what Bobohone says, he's the biggest liar." While ago he was bragging on him. Always tell the truth. "Never believe what he says, he's crazy, and don't know what he's talking about." (Laughter)
