

Yeah. And the way the game went--if the men beat the women, the women, the women had to hustle the grub. And if the women beat the men then the men had to hustle all the grub. They had to go--and if the women got beat, we'd have Conuchi (?), or chicken, pies, things like that and--

(Berry pies, cobbler? Fruit pies of some sort?)

Yeah. And if the men got beat, we'd eat squirrels and rabbits and things like that and quail.

(Was that one-stick ball, or did you use two sticks?)

Two sticks.

(Two sticks--like the Seminoles and Creeks?)

Yeah. I think I'll show you. I think I got two hanging in there yet.

(A long time ago, somebody told me that the Cherokees had--used to have this sorta like a cross that played on one stick, back in the East.)

Well, they might a done that back there.

(I've never heard of it back here.)

USE A DECK OF CARDS - PLAY PITCH AND USE HAZEL NUTS

But that's all the recreation we had and through the week, I remember after I got to talking English pretty good, the boys got a deck of cards. And there was a lot of hazel nuts then down in that English Hollow and--

(A lot of hazing?)

Hazel nuts.

(Hazel nuts?)

Yeah. Hazel nuts. And we'd gather them by the pocket full, you know. And we'd get in some shady thicket somewhere and Boy, you talk about a pitch game, we'd have it for (?) all day long. Now that was all the recreation we had.

PITCHED ROCKS LIKE HORSESHOES GAME AT A PEG IN A HOLE IN GROUND

And then we had another game. We pitched rocks like you do horseshoes, round rocks.

(Un Hunnh. Pitch 'em to hole in the ground?)
