

(laughter)

Yeah he was quite a boy.

(Yes he is.)

I think his wife died. I guess, he's getting pretty old. His wife was going to school when he got married.

(Yeah. He is getting pretty old I guess.)

WILD TURKEYS, DUCKS, GEESE, AND OTHER BIRDS, FOWLS, AND ANIMALS

(Was there lots of game here in this country when you were a young fellow?)

Oh yeah, plenty of game. Lots wild turkeys, deer. Killed lots of deer.

(Lots of ducks and geese?)

Oh yes, lots wild geese all along there, just as far as you could see.

Weren't no bushes in those days. They was feeding along in there. That's the only time I ever seen 'em was right there. There was a lot of 'em for a long time, and now you don't see 'em anymore.

(No you don't see them anymore. I guess there use to be a lot of ducks too. All kinds?)

Yeah lots of ducks. Yeah I've killed ducks, you know, pretty ducks, you know. Pretty top on their head.

(Yeah. Wood ducks. They're pretty.)

Oh. Wood duck.

(Yeah, and a long time ago there use to be a what they call canvas back, red head duck, you don't see them anymore. And black duck. Big duck! about the size of a mallard.)

Yeah they called them butterduck.
