

no difference, that's where she got that name Sis. They always called her Sis.

(Now the people here in the ----)

Now that, that woman up there is Shirley Ross, that's Elizabeth, she married a Ross, but he was a Scotchman and she is a sister of Chief John Ross. See there was three boys and six girls. So that is Elizabeth Ross, who was Shirley you've heard 'em talk about Shirley Ross, let's see and cousin Limmy, well thier grandmother.

CHIEF JOHN ROSS WAS HER GRANDFATHER - CAME HERE ON THE TRAIL OF TEARS

(Now Chief John Ross was born in Georgia, is that right?)

Wait a minute. Let me get it all fixed. Yeah, because the old home place, y'know, is in Georgia. And his father, you know, well in fact that's where he was livin' after his father died when they started back here "The Trail of Tears", 1839. So, I thought well, I'd get these boxes emptied and get things in one place, then I thought when you come back. I'll have it where I could give it to you. We was there forty years y'know. People wasn't interested and I saved so many things. Well now after this Mr. Hinton's brother. That's Haskell Hinton's son, that was before (not clear) went. Well, (not clear) the old bachelors, lived over here what we call the Docking place. That was a daughter by a second marriage named Strapler y'know. And so that how come daddy to meet mama. Well, Uncle Dick he was the youngest, he'd come over here and visit with Grandmother. And he could tell you lots of things that Grandmother had told him y'see. I wasn't quite three years old when Grandmother died in '94. So therefore, lots of things that we younger ones didn't know, unless we could remember. But he passed on and the woman in the Little place, that's Aunt Lizzie,
