

Jenny: Yes.

(What did he mean by saying that because she was picked Princess, she got to wear all these elk teeth?)

Jenny: Well, that's the way the peoples can tell that they are Audematon.

(Nobody else wears that?)

Jenny: Nobody else, just Audematon, we call them, something like that--Princess--that wears them.

(Well, where did they get those elk teeth?)

Jenny: Oh, they hard to get. (to Cecil) Where they get those elk teeth?

Cecil: Huh?

Jenny: Elk teeth, how did, where did they get them?

SIOUX MAKE GIFT OF ELK TEETH DRESS TO PRINCESS

Cecil: Elk teeth. They came from the Sioux Indians, way up in Montana. And after she was chosen as a Princess, that tribe had heard about Hunting Horse's daughter being chose as a Princess among the Kiowa Indian tribe. They brought them elk teeth to give her and a buckskin dress to wear for any celebration or anything that came up. For dances, she wore that. I wish I had all of them, I could get a lot of money.

(Then her dress was a gift?)

Cecil: It was a gift. When the Sioux brought that elk teeth dress, then my father, in return, he had to give appreciation--show appreciation for what had been done. That's first thing I think that happened after it had been done. She was chosen of my father and mother as a Princess of their life. Whatever she wants, and whatever she asks for, they can't refuse it. That's how she stands.
