

They come round here and they eat and I wouldn't bother 'em. Wouldn't want to. And two days before that they was fixin' to put on the huntin', I'd been up to Old Uncle Billy Wells--an old feller lives right up yonder--had a 22 target--still got it. Come back, jest beside the road there, up agin' the fence, stood this little buck deer, and them little horns wasn't that long. Boy, I got him!

(Boy, that would be good eatin' wouldn't it?)

Boy, it was tender, 'whoo-ie!

(Yes sir, he'd sure be good.)

Here one day four of 'em killed, back over there next to that Salvation Army buildings one evenin'. I know they's usin' automatic Winchesters. Five shots picked up. I never have saw them deer since. Well, they'd go back in there on Josie's place--This place--joined that up thar'. They've got nice buildins' and ever thing--nice things up there in them Salvation Army buildings. I'll bet they got them big bucks.

(Probably so.)

That little 'un. Boy, was good eatin'. Took my niece over a good ham. Boy, she'preciated it.

(Well, I would.)

She's laughin' yesterday 'bout that.

HEATING HOUSES WITH WOOD FIRE AND ELECTRICITY AND BUTANE

(Do people round here use wood for heating in the winter time?)

Huh?

(You use wood to heat your homes in winter time?)

Some of 'em does and some of 'em got electric lights you know, and butane.

(Well, you've got plenty of wood around.)
