

have a battle, well somehow they get close to the mountain or hill. That's where they always go up. They always run to the mountains to get way up there so the enemy can't get up there because they shoot down. And that's the way they always do. When they know there's an enemy, they get close to a mountain or high hill. And that's what happened again. The soldiers round them up and they went to the mountain, I guess--hill. That's where they headed to. And they got there and there was a cave up there. I guess they run in there so they wouldn't get hit from their shells. You know and then the soldiers came up there and they found that. They went in that cave but it was a deep cave. I don't know how they got there. Slide in there, I guess. They know they're going to get shot and get killed so whatever they do to get out--try to get out. When they know the enemy is getting back of them, they do anything. So they got in that cave. Like he said, it was maybe ten feet deep or something like that. And there was water in there. The soldiers, they said, "Well, we get them somehow. They'll run out when they get starving, you know, when they want to drink or eat," because they ruined that water for them by throwing that dead stuff in there in that water. I guess they could see that water way down there. And that's where they just throw everything in there to drive them out. But while they were in there, not one day but maybe a week or something like that, then Black Bear said, "I'm going to look around and see if there is any way we could get out of this thing cause we can't go back the way we came. There's soldiers all over guarding this place." So it seems like he saw a star someplace and it was dark and night time. That's where he took the lead. And the other young men followed him. In case this one, if it cave in,
