

Neither am I campaigning for anyone, but an idea came up the other day, having a church young group there in Lawton, with the problems of the younger people, well one of the candidates within this county here, brought up subject to me because of one of the kids involved, had a problem, so I went on over there. We got things straightened out. And he said definitely there should be an Indian appointed within the county, to take care of the problems before they happen and not after they happen, then the white man gets hold of their problem. And he said he's definitely for it, but next thing it would take a group like this to push them. And I thought it was a real good idea and not that I want the job, I have no use for it. I'm not qualified to do anything like that, but I've got my own job, but something like this can be done because an Indian knows another Indians' problem before it happens. And then we all wonder well, why was a certain individual mistreated. And I think something like this could be pushed along and develop into something good.

Tommy Johnson: Now, I'm in the position now if I had five good able-bodied men report to me in the morning, I couldn't hire'em, (not clear) because we are always in need of help. Its strenuous hard work and if any of you people have any--are heads of any families that are in need, willing workers, physically capable of doing hard work--that's what my department does. They--its, you have to swallow your pride if you're desperate, it's loadin garbage and haulin' trash. And its reasonably good wage compared to Lawton. We start out at a $1.50 an hour, we see than an individual is gonna stay, reasonably good worker and raise him up to an $1.60. Within six months, maybe less, $1.70 an hour and a job there as long as people eat, there's always be garbage.

Clarence: Well, my main concern is like this lady over here with children
