

Bud: Could we meet out at Ft. Sill. Earl?

Ace: Shall we plan to meet out at Ft. Sill then? Is the 5:30 meeting better than late?

Bob: Would we have cafeteria facilities there?

Ace: Yeah. (laughter in background)

Ace: If its agreeable with everyone else that facilities are better that we have here, why you can come then.

Lady: There's a certain amount of fellowship in the cafeteria that you won't get at just a strict meeting.

Ace: Well, the next time we meet, I'd kinda like for us to just "brain-storm" It doesn't make any difference what you do, you know, what idea you have.

You think it might sound silly, it might sound out-landish, but any and every idea that have, I'll try to get a blackboard in here. (voice and laughter in background) (chalkboard) Anyway, I'll get a board in here and I'd like to just start out --you know, the things that we can do--objectives. And it doesn't have to be--it doesn't have to make sense.. The thing about is that we need to have enerything that we can get and then to come back and get selected and pick out the ones we want to give preference to, add to then, take away from then and just adjust everything as we go.. And I think probably if we did this, we would come up with a list of objectives that we could have real effect with.

Bob: (not Bob Miller) I may be out of order here, but I think we ought to organize now. (laughter). I've wasted about fifteen years here--two weeks too long.

Ace: Well, I still think that each one of us ought to really decide whether or not we want to be a part of it. There are several that couldn't come to various meetings, so (noise in background). How does everybody feel? Maybe you want to do what Bob say.
