

Jenny: That means when they witch somebody. When they witch you or him, pat'wgw.

Cecil: They do that with your fingernail, teeth or the hair.

(They do?)

Cecil: That's what they witch. Sometimes they witch some some kind of little bugs or something. Then everybody couldn't do that. Just that man that's a witch or a woman. They don't want--let's see, somewhere way back in the east, somewhere they got a lot of witches over there--white people.

WITCHES WOULD DRAW LIKENESS OF THEIR VICTIM ON THE GROUND AND THEN WITCH THAT

Jenny: One time my father was telling a story about a witch because he's a medicine man. And he always tell us things. He said, "It's not good to witch people because when you witch somebody you don't like or you gonna kill, you have to give up one of your children, one of your children in their place. If you gonna take somebody's life away, you are gonna pay for it with your children." He said, "That's why I don't like it. I don't believe in that." He said he saw his uncle, that's his own uncle. He said he was witching a man on the ground, in the dirt. He said he draw a man like that--not too good. And then he had a needle. He said, "I was a boy but I was watching him."

Cecil: This man was gonna witch another man because of jealousy. So he took a stick and drawed a man on the ground. And this man, he was off somewhere else. But he want to witch that man because of jealousy. And he take a needle. And he made his heart--draw his heart. Then when he got ready, he took that needle and throwed it. It hit that heart. That fellow got the hemorrhage. That's how
