

Lion Hall.

Third voice: Lion Hall.

It was just a little place. That's what they called it. Lion Hall.

(Mmhhh.)

Out here in the foothill--what do you call it-- What was their name? (not clear).

(Grain?)

Grain. Yes. They met there and (remainder not clear)

(Well)

And then they named it.

(Umhhh.)

And when they come to move it, why the Baptists Association, they had a little church right out here so they wouldn't (not clear)

(Mmhhh.)

So the Christian Church is still down in the old location and First Southern Baptists are here. And all their homes--I know every one of them that moved have better homes than they had when they was down there.

(Mmhhh.)

Because they had to be fixed up to live in and they had to be put on a new foundation and every one of them were made modern where in old Alluwe they weren't.

(Yeah.)

But I have seen the time when there were as many as three, four doctors lived in Alluwe.

(Well, my goodness.)

You can't get a doctor here now.

(Hm)

And of course we never did have a hospital. But we had two doctors.
