

Dunham. Old man Dunham. Frank Beaker was the first man got killed in Alluwe.

(Well Frank Beaker?)

He and (not clear) Christie. I believe they was partners.

(Well that was the trading center for that country over there wasn't it.) /

Yeah it was. Yeah they used to run a mail route from Hayden to Alluwe. There's an old Indian, he is still living over there. Jess Rogers, he run that there mail route.

(Uh-huh)

And John Murray he went to Nowata and got the mail. They called them mail hacks then.

(Mail hack)

Yeah he hauled mail back this far. Carried mail.

(Now about Catale uh- it used to be pretty good little place at one time.)

Yes

(What do you remember about Catale?)

Well I never was ever around there very much. We always come to Chelsea. But I remember going out there and buying. My father bought a wagon and some harness and paid dear. There was a man there, name of Dick run a store. But I never was in his store. We always just take our business and went to Chelsea.

(Did they have a depot there too?)

Catale?

(Uh-huh. Train stop?)

Yeah they did.

(Uh-huh. What railroad is that? Is that Frisco?)

Yes. Frisco.

(Let's see did they have a school there too?)

Yes they had a school.

(A Church)
