

out there and I usually don't--I was sitting. I left my clothes. I had dress. I put clean clothes in there so I could just run in and change. But I had, you know, underclothes. Pants on and I was sitting out there on a little bench. Just washing my head and had soap suds all over and finally he hollered. He said, "There's a car coming. There's a car coming." And sometimes they park out here or in the front. Boy, I had soap suds all over. And I just got the towel and wipe off my soap suds. I ran--I ran this way. And I was going to run in the kitchen so I could put my dress on. I had underclothes on. I ran and I got to the door and he had the screen door locked. He just done that--just want to have fun, I guess. And I said, "Cecil, open that door!" I was looking that way--that car might drive in. I run back. He didn't open it. I run back and I ran this way and he had that door locked. My, I was about to scream. I didn't know what to do. I was going to run to that other house but that car is going to come if I run over there. So I just stood out there, right in the middle of the house and I was calling him. I was about to cry. He knocked at the window. He said, "There ain't no car," and just winked. Boy, I really got onto him. But things like that. And he was just laughing. "I was just fooling you." I still get mad when he tell that story to some of the visitors like my cousin. Well, they really laugh at it. Well, things like that, you know. It's a funny story.

Cecil: I think they call that big rock 'Cosw.

Jenny: That's what I thought but I find out again. 'Cosw.

Cecil: 'Cosw, that's what they call it.

Jenny: What would you say in English? 'Cosw, is that a sitting rock?

Cecil: Yeah, that's the nearest way.
