

his picture. He was on a horseback. He was carrying one of those shields he carried at the war. And his hair was about that long-- nice looking man.

(Down to his shoulders?)

Jenny: Yes. You know, in those days they grow their hair. And he's not a big fat man. He was just right size man. He wasn't fat. And he had his shield like that and his bow and arrows. He was on a horseback. They took it, I guess, somewhere he took that picture. Oh, I sure hate it--I don't know what become of that picture. I thought my brother had it but he said he didn't.

(Was it a big picture?)

Jenny: No, it was small but I could have--.

(Well, I was just thinking maybe Fort Sill Museum or some place might have it.)

(End of Side A)

Jenny: Mexican.

(Oh, he did?)

Jenny: Mexican, white people, other tribes--Indians. And when they bring that scalp of hair, you know, they tie it on those idols--Ten Grandmothers. They pray that way. "Help us when we go on the war-path to kill a man or woman. I'm going to bring the hair to you and tie it on you." On there and they do that. That's why I'm afraid of those idols. They got human hair on there.

BLACK BEAR WAS LEADER OF ELK CLAN AND GOURD CLAN
