

There's lot of graves there. His wife is buried there. Got markers, tombstones. And this here historical society got it all mixed up you know and got it that way and put his monument up there at Peters Prairie.

(Yes, sir. Was it east of Bernice, now. I'll look on my map and see where that would be. Be across the river.)

Yeah, be across the river, east of Bernice.

(Uh-huh)

Oh, what's them boys' name. Anyhow they own a farm. One of them still in there yet.

(Uh-huh)

And uh--I think of his name in a minute.

MORE ABOUT STAND WAITIE AND FAMILY

(Well that's where Stand Waite's place was over in there somewhere, wasn't it?)

No, Stand Waitie lived up here. His place was up here.

(Oh, he was up here by you. I mean where you was. He didn't have but one place.)

That's all that I knew of.

(Yeah. That's the one that you lived on.)

Yeah. Yeah, I imagine he lived down here. 'Course back over here where they have these big fish fries, you know, on Spavinaw. You know, they have speaking there every night. You know, they had big speaking down there. Now Stand Watie, I think he lived in there at one time. I know they said that old chimney stands there yet.

(Uh-huh)

And they make a fire there and do all this, got a good shed on it you know. And he do speaking there and have a big supper. They claim that Stand Watie built that chimney. That was a wonderful sight to see. I imagine fellow could go down and see and get them from these boys. And yet, get'em to talk about it. Roy Fields and Sam Fields. Sam's county clerk. He might show you lot of things that
