

So, these stories are handed down. They are very old. We hope that they will carry these stories on as long as they can. We try to teach the few Indian words with it so that keep in Indian stories.

So those were the stories they've been telling us for generations, and we still tell them today.

(End of Interview on Side B)