

I think actually there weren't no cars here.)

I imagine they did. Because...

OSAGE PEOPLE WERE GOOD SPORTSMEN

(We want to know just who all was there and you know it's interesting to know how all this took place and this all will be studied on in later years. Another thing, I didn't get in the games myself so I wouldn't know. What kind of sportsmanship did the Osages have. Were they hard losers? Or did they wanta win or did they just hard players or how their sportsmanship? You know what I mean. Did they like to win and all that?)

Well, as far as I can remember. They was...

(Tell me in your own words how your feel..saw how they acted and all that?)

They played. Whichever made most scores. Wasn't hard losers or anything. Everything just went on...just nice. If they win, they won. And there wasn't no prizes of any kind. Just more of enjoyment and fun to be together.

(So you would say that uh that the Osages just played uh...displayed good sportsmanship Uh. During...during these times do you recall any other places where they played this game, "shinny game.")

No, I don't remember. Where they played "shinny" games, elsewhere. Except there. And the old place at the...let's see what would you call...Claremore Camp. They use to call that. That's the only place I knew of. That they'd play first. Later, they played at our home. North of Hominy.

(Another little point that I don't know myself. Uh...when these people came to the place to play and they got together uh...you said, there would be two centers didn't you say out there.)

Yes.

HOW TEAMS WERE CHOSEN

(Uh...how did the...how did the uh..who selected to play on each side. Which one did the selecting? To play on each side?)
