know what it was--but they called him Sadiyo (?).  Boy, what I mean, he really dressed like them hombres!  Boy, he was a little rough.

He didn't shave.  He carries them forty-fives.  He ain't got nothing in there, but he just carries them.  They took that firing pin out-- the county (deputies or law officials).  That's the kind.  He's old-fashioned, you know.  He always carried them.  Boy, he looks tough!

Wears cowboy (clothes) old--never was any laundry.  Boy, he looks tough!

He was coming down the hill.  We was afraid of him.  He was coming down the hill.  You know right across the creek from the Boone store there?  You know where Miss Owens lives?  There's a house--their new house.  He was coming down that hill--the road.  Houston looked up.

"Hey, Sadiyo's coming."  And Isabel had one of them cabinets--I don't know what you call them, but you put clothes in there.  It had a little bitty drawer on the top, and two of them on the bottom.  There was a place where you could hang your clothes inside there, and shut it (a wardrobe).  We didn't know where to hide.  Of course we could have locked the doors.  But Stecker said, "Hey, let's get in the cabinet."  "O.K."

We got way on top.  He said, "Boost me up there."  Got way on top.

So I got in the middle and Houston got in the drawer.  He stand there.

Boy, he come to the door.  (Makes sound of someone knocking frantically)

"Hey!"  We don't answer.  (Knocks again)  Finally he give up.  I don't know how long he was there.  I guess he left, you know.  Stecker said,

"I believe I'll take a peek."  He pushed that door, you know.  Boy, he come to the door.  (Makes sound of someone knocking frantically.)

"Hey!"  We don't answer.  (Knocks again.)  Finally he give up.  I don't know how long he was there.  I guess he left, you know.  Stecker said,

"I believe I'll take a peek."  He pushed that door, you know.  Boy,

I tell you, that thing start rocking.  Pretty soon away it went!  (Fell over.)  Boy, when that cabinet hit that floor, there was just a splat!

And it had a mirror on one side, and it had a few drawers, too, on this
