

(Where was it located?)

It was over there this side of Bushyhead. Back north in the woods there, I think.

Viella: Back south wouldn't it. There weren't no woods.

Yeah, back south.

(Well I guess school were few and far between in those days?)

Oh, yes.

(Children had to go so far to school.)

And there was an old school down there at Washington. An old, old community.

(Yeah. And he mentions his grandmother too. He talked a lot about her.

Old--(not clear).

(Yeah. Well in those early days where were those burial places? Did they have established cemeteries as we know them now?)

WASHINGTON CEMETERY

Yeah. Yeah down here at Washington there's a cemetery. And over there west of Foyil there's one. Then there's one right back over here. Oh, a mile, about a mile. There's a cemetery over there near Lone Prairie.

(Yeah.)

Viella: I don't know. Is Washington about the oldest cemetery around?

Yeah I imagine it is.

Viella: (not clear)--old. \

Yeah, I guess (not clear).

Viella: It's, you know it's out west of--then back north.

(Yeah.)

--(not clear) is now.

(Yeah. Well I've heard lots of people say that.

FRIENDLY CUSTOMS IN EARLY DAYS

You weren't out no taxes. You didn't have to pay no taxes. And go a hunting anytime you got ready.
