

(Hum-m)

She wasn't too many hours old. Her mother passed away. She used to tell me. Used to tell me she never had seen her father.

(Well)

Don't remember seeing her father. Her both parents. Mother and father. She was raised as an orphan. Her grandma. Her grandmother was the one raised her up.

(Hum)

I don't know. A girl's seminary. At Parkhill. Years and years ago.

(Yeah)

One that burnt down. Years ago. She taught. She went to that school.

(Well)

I don't know. And after that thing burned down. They were moved down here to Salina. Someplace.

(Yeah)

The old place down at Salina. In there. I don't know from there. I don't know just how she went anyway.

(No)

And uh--

(You remember what her name was?)

Pigeon.

(Pigeon)

I don't know what her first name was. Just her last name.

(Her last name. Uh-huh)

Eliza Pigeon. Her maiden name.

(Uh-huh. Well I wonder if that would be the same family? You know Nancy Pigeon still lives over at Kenwood.)
