

Mr. Thomas: Name was Hope.

(Hope Otto)

He went there when he was just a little old kid. They said he was orphan.

(Yeah)

His folks, something killed his folks and the government sent him out there.

Didn't have people.

(But that was the way of lot of those fellows they sent there because they were orphans. They didn't have any home.)

Oh yes. But he did have a smile for everybody.

(Oh yeah)

And he was calmed face, nice mannered. Nice ways. That fellow was my firend.

THERE WERE OTHER STUDENTS WHO ARE REMEMBERED

(There was an Otoe there for awhile, little boys advisor. His last name was Lincoln.

Mr. Thomas: Sam Lincoln.

(Sam Lincoln, yeah. Did you know him?)

Yeah I know him. I didn't go to school with him. But I know him.

(And that Indian in charge of the print shop there by the name of Chapman.

Do you remember him, Cat?)

Mr. Thomas: Yeah. He went up there when we went up. He's an Otoe.

(Yeah)

Mr. Thomas: We did have another one by the name of (name not clear)

(Yeah)

So that's still (not clear). (Not clear) over there in Albuquerque

(Yeah)

Old Jones was there yet when you went there. Bill Jones or what's his name.

(Bill, isn't it?)
