

(Early day you had good Indian preacher)

Yeah uh-huh.

(Who was your preacher?)

Well there was so many of them I couldn't tell you who they are.

(Yeah)

Preacher we've got now is Pete Vann.

(Yeah)

And (name not clear) president out there. And they live over there. And (name not clear) has to preach way over there too. Have to go there, back to their country. On up to cross the ford. Sam Cummings he--

(Yeah I know him.)

And uh--due east. Back in that way. They just going (not clear) Somebody to go.

INDIANS WERE THANKFUL EVERY DAY - NOT JUST SPECIAL DAY

(Uh-huh. I just wonder, way back there, the early days the Cherokee they observed Thanksgiving too.)

I don't know. I never didn't know about their Thanksgiving, that's too long ago.

(Well)

I don't know whether they had Thanksgiving back in them days or not.

(Yeah)

Doris did they have Thanksgiving? (Question to third person)

(Answer): "I don't think so."

Uh-huh. Course the Indian he had Thanksgiving any and ever day though.

Everyday.

(Yeah that was in his heart. He was thankful for everything.)

Well there ought to be Thanksgiving every day of the year.

(Yeah. And they didn't know about Christmas did they?)
