

--I was 6 or 7 then. I had a step-daughter--I mean, step sister and she was just my size. And my dad--and then he came after us. He came after me and oh, that lady was so nice to me, she loved me then.

(Did you live at Red Rock then?)

Yes, and then we lived at Red Rock. See, my dad took me and that was her home, she had a home and that's where we lived.

(A house?)

A house, yeah. That's where we lived in a modern house then--not modern either--there was no house that was modern. But anyway it was fixed pretty good. And then they lived together--maybe seven maybe six or seven they put us in a boarding school. Me and my sister.

(Now that's your half-sister?)

Yeah, my sister Rosie.

(Mrs. Little Crow's little girl?)

Yeah, Mrs. Little Crow's little girl and--

(What school did you go to?)

Oto school. Oto Boarding School. That's where we went to school.

(Is that in Red Rock?)

Yeah, that's at Oto school. We call it the Oto school. It's east of Red Rock.

(That was the government school?)

Yeah, that was the government's school. It was quite a place, but now there ain't nothing there. Just an old--they got a community hall there now. It is, but anyway, that's where I went to school and I was just a little girl.

(Was that a boarding school?)

Yeah, a boarding school like government school. But we stayed there, ate
