

receive, you're going to get it. You're good and honest and do as we tell you, you're gonna get what you're going after. To know something very important, that's what you're going for. You may hear a voice talking to you. You may see some animal. You may see something queer. You may see a spirit. You may see a bad animal. But be careful. Be sure that that's really an animal before you make an aim to kill it. That's if-- sometimes they see these visions. You might see a vision. And if it talk to you, just say 'Grandpa, what is it that you want to tell me? I'm ready to hear.' Don't be afraid coward. Don't. Be a man. You're a man. Be a man. And we pray Great Spirit's gonna take care of you." See? And he did. He stayed four days. Wandered around. Grandpa kept praying, she said. Grandpa kept praying. Everytime they sit at the table--they eat--they pray. And ask that God--the Great Spirit--take care of him, wherever their son is. You know, like that, you know, in their own words. They'd say, "I wonder how he is?" They used to call him by name--but I don't know his name. Finally, one evening, fourth day, it was coming. Oh, his stomach was all in, flat. He was all in, just barely walking. No water. No nothing to eat. No one to talk to him. It was interesting when my sister was telling me that. I said, "My!" And my grandpa--before that--he was all this time making bows--I mean--what is them long ones you shoot with? (Arrows?)

Arrows, he was making him them arrows and he went out and got cow hooves and he boiled them and he got that--what is it? That sticky--what is it? That glue. He got glue out of them and she said it was fun to watch him. She said he cool that and put it on a stick. She said they wind that glue on the top of it. That's the way they made their arrows. When they tie them stones or knives--whatever they tie on there--they used them glues.
