

And they plant sweet potatoes or Irish potatoes.

(Uh-huh)

Watermelons. Anything in the ground.

(Well used leaves for fertilizer.)

Uh-huh. And that sawdust we used to use that too. Use it as fertilizer, sawdust.

(Well)

Uh-huh. Scatter it on you farming ground.

(Uh-huh)

BELIEVES COMMERCIAL FERTILIZERS AND POISONS HELPED TO KILL JACKRABBITS

Poison for, lot of poison you know for 'the every stuff they's growing. Them farmers used that. It killed all the jackrabbits.

(Hum)

You don't ever see any jackrabbits now.

(No)

No you don't. We used to go out on the prairie. You see jackrabbit run across the road every where.

(Everywhere. Yeah)

Uh-huh. Yeah they put out poison.

(No, it's been a long time since I've seen a jackrabbit. And there used to be a lot of them.)

Last time I seen, way down there cross Duck Creek.

(Uh-huh)

Just one. Used to be lot of them here.

NO DUCKS AND WILD GEESE ANYMORE

(And the duck and geese. I don't see them anymore.)

No they all down the lake.
