

Yeah.

(Something like that existed.)

FATHER WAS HARD WORKER

Mrs. Longtail: "When his daddy first come here, (inaudible). He made us sit down right in front of him and listen at him talk. And he'd talk about some of the things years ago. (Inaudible.) How he got here, you know. And I still (inaudible).

(Well. Uh-huh.)

He was a hard worker. He worked seven days a week.

(Why he must have been then. So many people that I have talked to, who knew him, said he had a sonderful ability to farm and raise things.)

Mrs. Longtail: "When he had his ground broke. Ten acres (inaudible)."

Ten acres of ground broke.

Mrs. Longtail: "He was working and got sick and had his ground already broke. And got sick in March and died soon after that."

(Where did your dad originally come from, Henry?)

West of Kansas City.

(West of Kansas City.)

Yeah. Shawnee County, Kansas.

(Shawnee County, Kansas. What was the reason for them--uh--did they have to move?)

Yeah, there was a lot wrong up in there. They'd been robbed and burnt out. Everything. And their cattle stole, And houses burnt up.

THE SECONDINE FAMILY

(Well, that's the same story with a lot of other tribes of Indians. Cherokees had their share of it, too. Now the Secondine family, were they from out in there or were they from further on south?

I know they have one--)

The Secondine was buried there.
