

(There is one.)

That's Irene.

(Yes.)

Uh--that's my niece.

(Well.)

And this Secondine, he was a Delaware. He married my niece. He married Rebecca.

(Yeah. Now Jacob Secondine was a Delaware.)

Yeah. He was a Delaware. He's buried down in Osage County, I think. Somewhere.

(Yeah.)

At least that is what I think.

CONTRARY SCHOOL

(Have you any idea when that old log chapel was built? Or did he ever say?)

Mrs. Longtail: "No."

I don't know when it was built there.

Mrs. Longtail: "I don't remember."

I don't know whether it was built there before I was born or not. I was born in 19--somewhere along in there somewhere.

(Uh-huh.)

Mrs. Longtail: "I heard it was Contrary Schoolhouse."

No. No, Contrary Schoolhouse used to be up toward the old Cellar Schoolhouse.

(Yeah.)

Mile and a half.

(Isn't that an unusual name for a school?)

Yeah. (Laughter.)

(Contrary School.)
