

tract of land. What kind of a agreement did he just give it to 'em or did--?)

He said President told Mr. Wah-hre-she that he would give them a tract of land, that Osages would have to move down there. They wasn't paying for it, he was just going to give it to them.

(And did they--how did they think of the idea. Did they think it was good--of course, they hadn't seen the land at that time, but at the time did they think it was a good idea?)

(Mr. Wah-hre-she?)

Mr. Wah-hre-she thought it was a good idea to do that but after he thought it over and talked it over with different ones--different parties that they didn't think they could move down there at that time.

(Now this party that first made the approach to Mr. Albregon--how did Mr. Wah-hre-she call on this idea? Do you remember anything about that?)
No, I don't remember that.

(But he was just wanting to find another reservation in addition to the one we had?)

I think so.

(But it was quite a chapter in our history if we had acquired that reservation. And, do you remember just when Mr. Wah-hre-she came back from that first trip. How was he received by his own people, the Osages?)

Well, he said as though--he told several of them that it might be good idea to do this on behalf of his tribe. He was thinking more of his tribe, what was going to take place ahead a time. And he thought it would be good idea to go down Old Mexico.

(In what capacity did Mr. Wah-hre-she hold in his tribe. Was he a leader
