

TRIP NOT ENJOYABLE - UNHANDY TO CARE FOR THE CHILDREN

(Well, tell us in your own words if you remember. Did you enjoy that trip?)

Well, I enjoyed it in one way--in other words on account of the children

I didn't enjoy it very much because everything was so--everything wasn't like we been used to having. And I was more so anxious to come home.

(And, well, I can understand it. My brother Lloyd was still more or less kind of a little un-handy there.)

Yes, I had a baby sitter with me and which I had a young baby at that time and the other children I had with me. Sometimes it was so unhandy for the children. And it was the time of the year that it was cool and uncomfortable in some ways.

(Then you might say, you were kinda glad to get back to this country.)

You can believe it. (laughter) Yes, I was glad to get home when I did get home. Seem like everything more handy than it was over there at that time.

(But I certainly admire the Mormons who stayed down there and made their lives down there and endured the hardships. I guess they were used to it and they were just hardy people.)

They were. I just don't remember what this settlement--what the name of the Settlement was.

(And as you--as the party, I imagine left this Settlement, how did--you went down there in cars--it seems like to me, they were provided by some one--these cars--and at a certain time they must have come after you and took you back to where the train depot was.)

Yes, I guess they did, because we got as far as we could get on a train. From there, why, the car was there after us to this place where we were going to.

(Then when the cars returned, I guess that was the time you all had seen
